RE: Pre-Authorization Request — 2011 PAC 15569

Dear Ms. Nistler:

We have received and reviewed the written notice from the Park Ridge Police Department of its intention to deny disclosure of certain information under section 7(1)(c) of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) (5 ILCS 140/7(1)(c) (West 2010). Specifically, on July 7, 2011, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] submitted a FOIA request to the Department for a copy of a report concerning a broken window and destruction of property. The Department is seeking to redact dates of birth and the name of a suspect who was not arrested or charged in connection with the incident.

Section 7(1)(c) of FOIA exempts from inspection and copying "[p]ersonal information contained within public records, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, unless the disclosure is consented to in writing by the individual subjects of the information." The exemption defines "unwarranted invasion of personal privacy" as "the disclosure of information that is highly personal or objectionable to a reasonable person and in which the subject's right to privacy outweighs any legitimate public interest in obtaining the information." 5 ILCS 140/7(1)(c) (West 2010).

DETERMINATION

The Department's use of the exemption in section 7(1)(c), to redact the name of a suspect is approved. The report contains allegations of criminal conduct for which the suspect was not arrested or charged. Disclosure of information identifying this person in this context would constitute a highly unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy. Accordingly, we conclude that the Department has sustained its initial burden of demonstrating that this information is exempt from disclosure under section 7(1)(c).

The Department's use of the exemption in section 7(1)(c) for the dates of birth is also approved. We have determined that the Department has met its initial burden of demonstrating that the disclosure of dates of birth would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. This type of information is highly personal by its very nature and the subject's right to privacy outweighs any legitimate public interest in disclosing this information. See, e.g., Oliva v. United States, 756 F. Supp. 105, 107 (E.D.N.Y. 1991) (holding that, under Exemption 6 of the Federal Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6)), "dates of birth[] are a private matter, particularly when coupled with * * * other information" and "would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy"); Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts v. Attorney General of Texas, ___ S.W.3d ___, 54 Tex. Sup. Ct. J. 245 (2010) (state employees have a "nontrivial privacy interest" in their dates of birth under the Texas Public Information Act (see Tex. Gov't Code §§552.101, 552.102), which substantially outweighs the negligible public interest in disclosure).

Accordingly, the Department may issue a partial denial letter and release the report with the suspect's name and dates of birth redacted, if it has not already done so.
