RE: Pre-Authorization Request – 2010 PAC 8535
Requester: [REDACTED]

Dear Mr. Recupito:

We have received and reviewed the written notice from the Round Lake Police Department of its intention to deny disclosure of certain information pursuant to Section 7(1)(c) of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). 5 ILCS 140/1 et seq., as amended. This letter is to advise you that your request is approved in part and denied in part.

[REDACTED] submitted a FOIA request dated July 8, 2010 seeking police report # 2010-1127. The report relates to a single-vehicle car crash that resulted in a fatality and injuries to three others. In its written notice, the Department asserted that dates of birth, photos of the crash scene, and medical information are exempt from disclosure under Section 7(1)(c) of FOIA.

Determinations

Section 7(1)(c) of FOIA exempts from inspection and copying "[p]ersonal information contained within public records, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, unless disclosure is consented to in writing by the individual subjects of the information." The exemption defines "[u]nwarranted invasion of personal privacy" as "the disclosure of information that is highly personal or objectionable to a reasonable person and in which the subject's right to privacy outweighs any legitimate public interest in obtaining the information." Id.

The Department's use of the exemption in Section 7(1)(c) with regard to dates of birth is approved. We have determined that the disclosure of this information would be highly objectionable to a reasonable person. The subjects' right to privacy in these personal details outweighs any legitimate public interest in obtaining this information. Therefore, the disclosure of this information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. 5 ILCS 140/7(1)(c).

The Department's use of the exemption in Section 7(1)(c) with regard to photos of the crash scene is approved in part and denied in part. We have determined that the disclosure of photos showing the deceased driver at the crash scene would be highly objectionable to a reasonable person. Therefore, the disclosure of this information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. 5 ILCS 140/7(1)(c). The release of other photos of the crash scene that do not include the deceased driver, however, would not constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Accordingly, those photos should be released.

The Department's use of the exemption in Section 7(1)(c) with regard to medical information also is approved in part and denied in part. We have determined that the subjects' right to privacy in the details of specific injuries reported or suffered outweighs any legitimate public interest in obtaining this information. Therefore, the disclosure of information which describes the details of specific injuries would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy and may be redacted. 5 ILCS 140/7(1)(c). However, disclosure of general details, such as the fact that a person suffered injuries or was transported to a specific hospital, would not be highly objectionable to a reasonable person. As such, disclosure of those details would not be an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.
